
Assignment Guidance Form

iUCT42 – Explore the origins of massage and principles of complementary and alternative medicine

- Research the origins of massage and principles of complementary and alternative medicine

To include the following:

- Origins of massage
- Development of the different forms of massage
- A market analysis to ascertain the popularity, scope and availability of complementary and alternative medicine
- The importance of analysing data collected from the market analysis
- Define the terms complementary, alternative and allopathic medicine
- Concept of complementary, alternative and allopathic medicine
- Compare the differences between complementary, alternative and allopathic medicine
- The importance of government guidelines in relation to education, training and regulation of complementary and alternative medicine
- Training and career pathways in the complementary and alternative medicine field
- The importance of identifying related sectors in terms of further career progression

Analysis of findings may be presented in any of the following formats and may include some ICT:

- Written report
- Chart
- Spider diagram
- Graph
- Other pictorial presentation

Document History

Version	Issue Date	Changes	Role
v1	09/10/2019	First published	Qualification Administrator