UIP1 - Infection Prevention (COVID-19) for Hairdressing and Barbering Services

LO2 Understand social responsibility for the hair and barbering sector
in relation to COVID-19

Social responsibility

The practice of producing/supplying goods or services in a way that is not harmful to society or the environment; socially responsible businesses operate in a way which is in the best interests of their staff, clients, community, the society at large and the environment.

There are benefits for the local and national communities, staff and clients when a business practises social responsibility.

The effects and benefits of social responsibility are far-reaching and everyone has a part to play.

Social responsibility

Socially responsible businesses demonstrate:

- Ethical behaviour
- Accountability
- Transparency
- Respect for all stakeholders
- Consideration for societal norms of behaviour
- Respect for human rights
- Compliance with legislation/law
- Promotion of sustainable working practices

Social responsibility in own role

The stylist/barber needs to be socially responsible through adhering to the advice provided by Government guidelines which affect both working and personal life.

For example – it is important to comply with legislation around workplace operations:

- Adherence to Government guidelines of the country therein
- Adherence to workplace policies and procedures in relation to COVID-19 and other respiratory infections

Health and wellbeing – staff and clients

Stay at home when you are sick

Avoid close contact with people who are sick.

Wash your hands at least 20 seconds.

Cover your cough or sneeze with a tissue.

Avoid touching eyes, nose, & mouth with unwashed hands.

Clean & disinfect frequently touched objects & surfaces.

- In order to maintain the health and wellbeing of staff and clients, it is important to follow current government guidelines of the country therein
- Establish protocols and procedures for the salon/barbershop
